

LATE AT NIGHT

Words and Music by E. Fischer ©2001

Late at night when I go creepin'
Gently past your window in the trees.
I sometimes have looked inside there
Just to see if there's a memory.

'Cause once there was a reason for the driftwood by the door.
Once there was a reason for the chimes.
Now, there's just no reason for anything no more.
You took the time,
we're just a memory....

Late at night sometimes I wander
Down the beach, while lookin' at the stars.
We once knew every constellation,
But, that's little consolation to me now.

'Cause once we shared a feeling for the dolphins and the sea.
Once we had a feeling for our lives.
Now, we share, no, nothin' for anything at all.
The tide has turned,
the past has washed away....

There are times when I awaken
And hope to find you lyin' sleepy by my side.
It's then, I know, my heart starts to breakin'
It's then, I can tell, my eyes start to cry.

'Cause once there was a reason for the driftwood by the door.
Once there was a reason for the chimes.

Now, there's just no reason for anything no more.
The tide has turned,
the past has washed away....

Late at night when I go creepin'
Gently past your window in the trees.
I sometimes have looked inside there,

Just to see...

If there's a memory....

Just to see....

Maybe....

A memory....
